GAFFER GREETINGS

JACK AND KUDUS

Hi Everyone,

It's great to be back at home for the first time, and we hope off the back of a great performance at Clacton on Tuesday night, we can have some momentum going into a massive next couple of weeks which will be vital for the club.

We look forward to your continued support and will be aiming to get as many points as possible to keep us up

We also welcome the away fans and officials of Ilford FC - Let's have a good one!

A little History..

Formed in 1955 by Doris and Gil Medcalf who were previously involved at their local side Eton Manor before moving to Southend-On-Sea, we have been proud members of the Essex Senior League since 1985 and we have been playing at our Southchurch Park home since that same year as well.

Our earlier history prior to 1985 saw us join the Southend Youth League in 1959 before moving onto joining the Southend Borough Combination League in 1964. Our time in the Borough Combination was a successful one as we were winners of the Premier Division over six times over the course of the 1970's and 1980's.

In 1991, we won our first and only Essex Senior League title with runners up having been achieved twice in 1999-2000 and 2011-12. Our furthest run in the FA Cup was also in 2011-12 when we managed to reach the Fourth Qualifying Round before bowing out to Kettering Town.

In 2019, Steven Robinson was succeeded by Jerry Omango as chairman of the club after a seven year spell in charge of the club.

Jerry has made several improvements to the club including new stands and perimeter fencing. The club has been built up to 17 teams with the youth section as strong as it has been in decades.

A little History..

Not only were Ilford one of the most famous names in amateur football for almost a century, but from 1904 to 1977 they played at one of its most celebrated venues. As well as being on hand to witness Ilford's many successes, the 18,000 capacity Lynn Road ground at Newbury Park staged Olympic Games matches, Amateur Internationals, an FA Amateur Cup Final, plus countless other cup finals and representatives matches.

Formed in 1881, Ilford were founder members of both the Isthmian and Southern Leagues, the latter from which they resigned to be replaced by an emergent Tottenham Hotspur.

Ilford secured four-acres of initially undeveloped land at Lynn Road in 1904 and huge crowds by today's standards necessitated developments which transformed the site into one of the best stadiums in the country.

By 1951 nearly all of the banking around the ground had been concreted, giving Newbury Park an 18,000 capacity with 1,400 seats, while in 1957 the covered accommodation was extended further still when a roof was erected over the terracing at the Ley Street end. But for the installation of floodlights in 1962, the ground remained unchanged for the remainder of its existence, even retaining its splendid white wicket fencing that spanned the four sides of the ground.

Further Wembley finals in 1958 and 1974 could not disguise the declining allure of the old amateur game. With increasing overheads, the old ground was put up for sale in 1977. Fans were seduced by the promise of a new, purpose-built stadium one mile away at Fairlop. This failed to materialise, following a tax bill which to this day is shrouded in mystery. A succession of ill-conceived mergers from which only today's Dagenham and Redbridge FC emerged the winner, tragically sealed Ilford's fate...(but not quite)!

Supporters and officials of the old club managed to reform Ilford FC against all the odds, in 1987. After a protracted 8-year campaign with Redbridge Council, agreement was reached over the use of Cricklefield Stadium in the High Road (curiously a venue coveted by the club when doubts about their tenure at Lynn Road first emerged in the 1960s).

Successive developments have seen the pitch extended, the ground fully enclosed and £1m was raised to support the building of the clubhouse in 2002. As well as being a fine stadium, Cricklefield also provides a link to the old ground in the form of the Sir Herbert Dunnico Memorial Gates -Which have now been installed at the stadium.
